Biography

Dr. Vocke is currently President of the World Affairs Council of Greater Cincinnati. A professor of political science, he has conducted research at a number of academic institutions in the United States and has taught in Germany and France. He has written extensively on international relations and international politics and economics.

Dr. Vocke says that “My Fellowship from the Taiwan Foundation for Democracy gave me the opportunity to research the relationship between Taiwan’s democratization and its diplomacy, and this experience was also an excellent springboard for understanding contemporary Taiwan’s international politics. Furthermore, this fellowship was also greatly beneficial for my speaking, writing, and teaching. It is rewarding to have a greater understanding of the process of diplomatic policy-making in Taiwan, and I will certainly share the viewpoints that I have developed with friends in the United States and Taiwan.”
